

Feeding CoolStance

Horses starting out on CoolStance can be changed over in two ways:

Mix some CoolStance in with the previous feed and exchange a little more every day over the course of 1—2 weeks.

Start out with 1/2 pound CoolStance / meal and increase gradually to full amount.

CoolStance is readily eaten by most horses, but if you have a picky eater, you may have to smuggle it into his feed one tablespoon at a time. Once the horse has gotten used to the new taste, they usually love it.

You can feed CoolStance

dry

or wet.

We recommend weighing your feed rations instead of feeding by volume.

2 cups are about 1/2 lbs.

We recommend starting most horses with 2 obs./day and then adjusting up or down as needed.

If you feed wet, we recommend to add at least the same amount (by volume) of water as you had feed.

The water gets soaked up really quick, there is no waiting time.

This is how the mixture looks if you add the same volume of water.

You can add much more water and certainly your supplements as well.

We are often asked what is added to the CoolStance. The answer is: Nothing. What is in the bag is pure copra meal, nothing added. This means you have to add a mineral supplement depending on your grass and hay profile.

If you have a horse that needs to gain weight, you can feed plenty of CoolStance without being afraid that he will get sick, or you can add PowerStance to his feed. The PowerStance will enhance the quality properties of this feed. Once your horse has reached his ideal weight, you will have to reduce the amount of CoolStance before he gets to fat.

One bag of CoolStance lasts one horse 3 weeks if fed 2 lbs./day.

One small bag (4.4lbs.) of PowerStance lasts one horse about 35 days at 2 oz./day and 17 days at 4 oz./day
